

Binge drinking among young people

In the picture I can see a young girl lying on a bench somewhere in a town at night-time. The girl, who is fashionably dressed, is either asleep or unconscious. It is clear that her state has been caused by alcohol as you can see some empty bottles underneath the bench.

The photographer wants to draw attention to the problem of binge drinking among young people. Everybody can see that the girl is in danger. There is a possibility that she is in need of treatment for alcohol poisoning, Another aspect is that she is a helpless victim to everyone who happens to pass by.
